

Pikes Peak – A Spiritual Prison: Dream

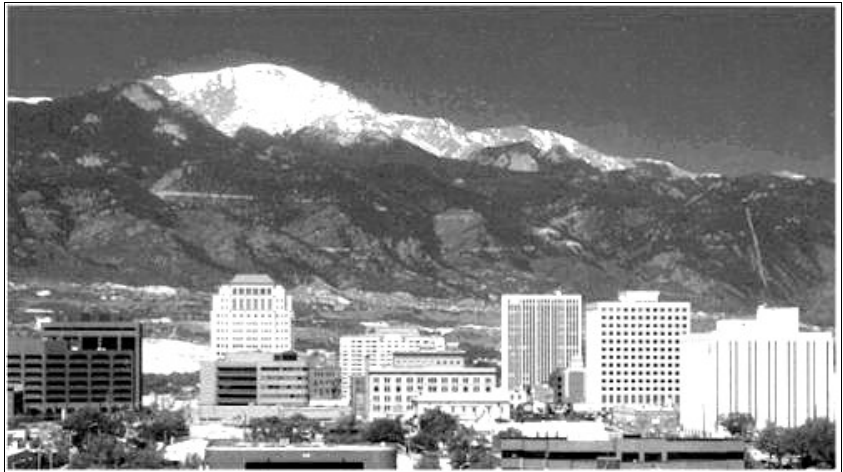

by David Michael, info@glentivar.org

Sacred Mountain

In a dream vision in the summer of 2010, I saw the mountain called Pikes Peak that is also called Manitou by the Native Americans. This mountain has a summit at over 14,000 feet and was known among the natives as the “western gate to heaven.” It was a sacred mountain upon which the 'creator' was known to once have a presence.

The Dream

In the dream, I was able to look 'into' the mountain and saw a large room like a cavern. In the center of the room was a stone altar and hanging above the altar from the ceiling by a cord was a massive crystal of clear quartz like material perhaps 2 feet in length and about 8”-10” across. I sensed a bondage in the room as if it was a place of sacrifice. I then awoke.

Interpretation

As I prayed about the dream, I came to understand that it was an ancient place of sacrifice and that the souls that were released from the body at the time of death were then imprisoned in the crystal and remain there to this day.

I had the sense that it was for me and perhaps others to release them through prayer that they might fulfill their destinies.

My sense is the souls imprisoned were more advanced than human souls. Perhaps the souls of an ancient and lost civilization? Perhaps as old as Atlantis and Lemuria (Mu)? Perhaps even before these civilizations? Perhaps Angelic souls?

Wars of the Past

Considering the location of Colorado and Pikes Peak as equidistant between these two major powers with Atlantis ruling over the Atlantic and Lemuria ruling over the Pacific, it makes sense. Atlantis with its other-world alien alliances were known to have overcome the powers of Lemuria in dominating the wars and it is likely the souls are Lemurian but this is not really known.

Perhaps they are angelic souls as suggested above? In any case, I am being led to again claim this mountain for YHWH and to free the souls through prayer and ritual that they might fulfill their destinies.

Update

In 2015, I finally went up to the top of the mountain with a friend and we together prayed for the release of the angelic captives in the crystal within the mountain. We both felt the closeness of the Holy Spirit and felt a sense of release that the release occurred. Sometime later as I was boarding the train to return to Manitou Springs, I had a vision.

The Final Vision

In the vision I saw clearly the crystal still hanging from the ceiling of a great cavern within the mountain. Then I saw little spots of light begin to come out of the crystal and they grew in size to full sized angels dressed in white with wings. Thousands came from this crystal as a full army who had been captured in some ancient war of light against the darkness. They were now free. I rejoiced and asked myself, "why did I wait 5 years to do this?"

I then understood that they would again become the "Guardians of the Mountain" as they had done in the past. I knew the armies of darkness who were on the mountain would no longer have free reign upon the mountain to to rule over the area.