

Model of the Church: Dream

by David Michael, info@glentivar.org

In an early morning dream of the 21st of February 2016, I found myself living among the native Americans. I found that they along with other ethnic prophets had been called largely as a people to be a prophetic voice to the rest of America in foretelling of the things that would come upon American in the very near future. I was living in a cave among them and sometimes, my wagon and at other times a tipi or other Native structure. It seemed this was not just one location but many locations and many villages.

I was in a tree one day looking toward the horizon and I saw a man coming from afar and was approached by this man who I recognized and had known some 45 years ago in Hawaii. He is now deceased yet he come to me in my dream. My friend is named John and in the dream he was leading a movement to unify the world into a single government to oppose the Satanic New World Order government. He came to me to ask about the best structure for this new YHWH government.

Hellenist Model

I said there are two models that he could choose from. The Hellenist model presented by Paul and planted among the gentile churches is different to the Hebrew model used by the Apostles in Jerusalem as described in the Didache also known as the “Teaching of the Apostles.” I explained to John that in the the Pauline model, there is a 5-fold leadership as the spiritual leadership and a 2-fold leadership in the administration of the stuff called bishops and deacons. The 5-fold spiritual leadership included Apostles, Prophets, Pastors Teachers (sometime Pastor-Teachers) and Evangelists. Paul developed this model somewhat isolated from the Apostles in Jerusalem while founding and living among the Gentile churches. Paul seems to refer to himself as an Apostle as a title whereas this did not occur in the Hebrew model. One can rightly argue this Pauline model is only suitable for use among the gentile churches.

Hebrew Model

I then described the Hebrew model that is based on the ruling structure of the ancient School of the Prophets that began in recorded history during the time of Samuel. In this model, the spiritual leadership of the communities are first prophets who hold the primary role in proclaiming the will of YHWH and then the Teachers (priests) who hold the secondary role in leadership in affirming the will of YHWH from the Holy Scriptures. In the Didache aka the Teaching of the Apostles written no later than 90 AD attributed to a joint authorship of the Apostles in Jerusalem especially James and John, the prophets are described as the “chief priests of the people” to whom the tithe is now to be given.

Teachers are described as supporting the prophets by confirming the prophetic revelations from the written Word of YHWH. It is implied that pastors and evangelists are the ministry responsibility of all believers and these roles do not require any special ordination. Apostle simply means “sent one” and are either Prophets or Teachers sent by YHWH for a short period of time (3 days maximum according to the Didache) to a place to bring a prophetic revelation complemented by a confirming teaching from the Word. Those sent are only described as Apostles while they are functioning in the role of being 'sent' where the title Apostle is not a ministry title such as suggested in the Pauline model.

Bishops and Deacons

Supporting the prophets and teachers are the bishops (elders) and deacons (their servants). These roles are primarily temporal administrative roles where they govern over the resources of the community and assure just distribution. These men are not the leading spiritual leaders in the communities as now found in the Hellenist churches of our time as led by bishops.

This seemed like a long winded explanation I gave to John in this dream but there it is.... long winded like I would do as a professor in my mundane life. As John was leaving and I was still sitting in the tree telling him all of this, I yelled out, "John you have to make a choice between these two models." The dream then ended.

New YHWH Government

Why did this dream come now? I can only assume King Y'Shua is in fact setting up a YHWH government and he wants to make sure it is formed according to the highest model as historically demonstrated in Jerusalem. If we corrupt the model by mimicking Hellenist Rome who continues to ignore the true prophets sent by YHWH, the communities will fail and be overcome by Satan.

I was in the tree because I am a watchman for the Lord. I am to warn the faithful of the things to come and tell them of the will of YHWH. I recently have been considering buying land to develop a YHWH self-sufficient community with its own government, economic system and church. The Hebrew model is the one I must follow for this enterprise and not the Hellenist Pauline model. I say this with respect for the teachings of Paul but I am compelled to embrace a more pure model as given by YHWH to the Apostles in Jerusalem.

In the Jerusalem church, the infrastructure of the School of the Prophets continued with the support of teaching priests. Bishops and deacons became the town administrators as the village Elders. Within this context of good leadership, the 9 gifts of the Holy Spirit were evident with great power. Extra food and resources were collected and redistributed among the less fortunate believers. All believers were expected to evangelize and to then take under their wing the repentant converts and pastor them. This is the model YHWH wants for the faithful who gather together in communities for these end times.
